Issue 15.2022

AN OPEN EDITORIAL FROM JEREMY ROCKLIFF, PREMIER OF TASMANIA

It is an absolute honour and a privilege to be elected by my Liberal parliamentary colleagues to serve as Tasmania's 47th Premier.

I will lead a Government with integrity, that is courageous, accountable and delivers on its commitments, but above all, I will lead a Government with heart.

A Government that listens to Tasmanians' needs, and ensures Tasmanians' priorities continue to be our priorities.

There is no doubt that Tasmania is in a much better place now since we were first elected in 2014, and I intend to expand on these gains, to the benefit of all Tasmanians.

Our economy right now is one of the strongest in the country, with more Tasmanians in work than ever before, including a record number of women, while our unemployment rate is at a near-record low of 3.9%, below the national average.

In fact, since coming to Government in 2014, 31,000 jobs have been created and we have nearly halved the unemployment rate.

We have growth in retail, tourism spend and private investment, while exports have hit a record high.

At the same time we are investing more than any Government in Tasmania's history into the areas that matter most – health, education and housing.

And we have taken steps to harness our State's competitive advantages to ensure we have a diverse and resilient economy, attracting investment and growing jobs so that all Tasmanians have the opportunity to achieve their goals and succeed.

Tasmania is in a good place, and as Premier, I am determined to harness the immense opportunities in front of us to keep this momentum going.

The importance of health and mental health is of paramount importance and I will retain these portfolios to deliver the health system Tasmanians deserve.

We will continue to invest heavily to transform our health system right across Tasmania to be more responsive and accessible through our record $10.7 billion investment, and $1 billion capital program.

This will deliver better hospitals and more capacity to meet demand, along with more local health services and resources to ensure Tasmanians get the health care they deserve, where and when they need it.

We will continue to drive our multi-million-dollar mental health reforms across Tasmania and deliver the services and care Tasmanians need.

Additionally, we are getting on with the job of delivering the biggest ever housing commitment in Tasmania's history.

This will unlock more land and options for development, and transform the way we build social and affordable housing. It will result in 10,000 more homes being built across the next decade, while ensuring there are more options for Tasmanians to access home ownership than ever before and putting downward pressure on rental costs.

As the former Education Minister, I remain passionate about the importance of education as a passport to a healthy and successful life.

Together with our record investment into education, we have also bolstered trauma and needs-based funding in our schools so that no child is left behind.

To make sure this support starts from before birth, we are implementing Tasmania's first ever Child and Youth Well-being Strategy, to give our young people the best chance in their years.

I am also deeply committed to delivering a pathway to Treaty and Truth-Telling, in deep consultation and through an Aboriginal-led process.

But we know to invest in those areas that matter to Tasmanians, requires a continued focus on keeping our economy strong and enabling Tasmanians to succeed.

We will continue to prioritise creating further diversity and resilience in our economy, backing small business, and leveraging our enviable climate positive profile, through delivering our job-creating renewables projects, including Marinus Link, Green Hydrogen and Battery of the Nation.

We have also demonstrated that we can take our place on the national sporting stage and Peter Gutwein has been instrumental in getting us as close as we have ever been to securing an AFL licence.

I am determined to finish what he started, so that Tasmania has its own team, once and for all.

And while the future for our State is bright and full of possibility, I know that there is still work ahead of us to ensure everyone benefits.

I do want to acknowledge my friend and colleague, Peter Gutwein, for his inspiring leadership and all he has done to keep Tasmania safe and set in place a bold plan for the future.

As Premier, I will forge my own path, and my vision for Tasmania is simple. It is to be a place where everyone feels valued, included, encouraged and supported to be the best they can be.

I love Tasmania, I love our people. I was born and bred here, and I've farmed the land here. Tasmania is in my blood.

I firmly believe that through bold ambitions and the responsible Budget management which has been a hallmark of this Government, we can lead with both our hearts and minds to secure a future that benefits all Tasmanians.

I look forward to serving and working for Tasmanians as Premier with an energised, unified and committed team.

WHAT IS TWO-UP?

Two-up is a traditional Australian game, most notably played in pubs and clubs on Anzac Day each year. The game is illegal on most other days of the year. The game features two pennies, a kip and a designated 'spinner', with gamblers betting on the end result.

HISTORY of TWO-UP

The exact origins of two-up are obscure, but it seems to have evolved from cross and pile, a gambling game involving tossing a single coin into the air and wagering on the result. Two-up was popular amongst poorer English and Irish citizens in the 18th century.

The predilection of the convicts for this game was noted as early as 1798 by New South Wales's first judge advocate, as well as the lack of skill involved and the large losses. By the 1850s, the two-coin form was being played on the goldfields of the eastern colonies, and it spread across the country following subsequent gold rushes.

Two-up was played extensively by Australia's soldiers during World War I. Gambling games, to which a blind eye was cast, became a regular part of Anzac Day celebrations for returned soldiers, although two-up was illegal at all other times.

As time passed, increasingly elaborate illegal "two-up schools" grew around Auspoker machines (slot machines) were legalised in clubs.

Legal two-up arrived with its introduction as a table game at the new casino in Hobart in 1973, but is now only offered at Crown Perth and Crown Melbourne. Two-up has also been legalised on Anzac Day, when it is played in Returned Servicemen's League (RSL) clubs and hotels. Several tourist "two-up schools" in the Outback have also been legalised. Under the NSW Gambling (Two-Up) Act 1998, playing two-up in NSW is not unlawful on Anzac Day.

May Shaw

Health and Aged Care for Living

CALLING FOR EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST

WE WOULD LIKE TO HEAR FROM you

May Shaw Health Centre recognises the benefit of involving both consumers and the community in health, and aged care service planning, delivery and review.

Partnering with consumers and the community leads to a more informed decision making process, a collaborative approach, planning, policy and process development and evaluation of health care and services. The aim is to provide overall quality and safe health care and services to our communities that meet their needs now and into the future.

This Committee will form part of our Engagement and Clinical Governance Framework and partner with the Clinical Governance Committee to co-design and deliver safe, quality aged care services to the community.

May Shaw is calling for Expressions of Interest from interested persons to add to our Consumer Engagement Committee, with a representative from the following groups/organisations:

- Residential Recipients
- Respite
- Home Care Recipients
- May Shaw Sub-Acute Services
- May Shaw Urgent Care Centre (UCC)
- May Shaw Units - Swansea
- Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Persons
- LGBTIQ
- Significant Community Groups
- Local Fire Service
- Disability Sector
- Local Ambulance Volunteer
- Aboriginal & Torres Strait Island Representative

Eligibility Requirements:

- Members are consumer and/or carers who have had first-hand experience of the health and aged care services delivered by May Shaw Health Centre.
- Members should be active in the community, have strong community networks and a sound understanding of local or regional issues.
- Members have the time to commit to quarterly meetings, 1-2 hour duration for a term of 12 months. Members have a genuine interest in improving the quality and safety of health, aged care services that meets the communities of Swansea and Scottsdale's needs now and into the future.

Your Role:

- Provide feedback and comments on health and aged care services.
- Undertake reviews and provide feedback on documentation, equipment and services.
- Be a spokesperson for your respective group.
- Partner with the organisation to ensure the community of Swansea and Scottsdale's voices are heard, acknowledged and valued.
- Facilitation of communication and consultation within the community where appropriate.

If you are interested in becoming a member please lodge your EOI outlining your experience, interests and reasons for wishing to join the Committee addressed to:

Michelle Parry, Executive Assistant, May Shaw Health Centre, PO Box 343, Swansea Tas 7190 or email: michelle.parry@mayshaw.com.au
 Expressions of Interest close Friday 29th April 2022. If there is more than one application received from the above groups, a selection process will be undertaken.
