LOW RAINFALL IMPACTING WATER SUPPLIES IN TASMANIA'S EAST

Stage 2 restrictions for Orford and Triabunna as Whitemark asked to conserve water.

Low rainfall and warm weather continue to impact water supplies in Tasmania's east, pushing Orford and Triabunna into stage 2 restrictions and prompting a conserve water message for Whitemark on Flinders Island.

Stage 2 restrictions will be introduced at Orford and Triabunna in the state's south-east from Monday, 29 April to help maintain water supply.

TasWater Head of Communications and Engagement Callan Paske said recent rain meant TasWater was able to delay the move until after the school holidays but, with little rain forecast, the next level of restrictions was required.

"Stage 2 water restrictions are still focused outside of the home and introduce further changes such as allocated days for watering gardens and sports grounds, but with the watering of lawns no longer permitted," Mr Paske said.

"This will mean a change to the routines of some residents, but these changes will significantly boost the amount of water available in the system."

For information on what stage 2 restrictions mean, visit <https://www.taswater.com.au/news/restrictions>

Meanwhile, Whitemark residents are being urged to conserve water and check for leaks as levels at Henderson Dam remain low.

Mr Paske said while the recent upgrade of the dam meant water was still available, TasWater was considering the need for water restrictions to manage the supply.

"We are now at a point in Whitemark where the water usage remains high, which is putting pressure on Henderson Dam," he said.

"With no major rain forecast this means the dam level has reached a point where water needs to be conserved.

"A decision will be made this week on water restrictions, however at this moment it's looking likely that Stage 1 measures be required from Monday 29 April."

In late 2022, TasWater completed a project to more than double the capacity of Henderson Dam providing additional water security to the residents of Whitemark.

"The upgrade to Henderson Dam allowed Whitemark residents access to water through the summer period," he said.

"The old dam would have been bone dry by now, and water restrictions would have been needed much earlier."

Some simple ways to conserve water include:

- Using handheld watering methods for gardens and not watering in the middle of the day.
- Using a bucket and trigger nozzle when washing cars.
- Keeping showers to four minutes.
- Choosing the half flush on the toilet.
- Avoiding pre-rinsing dishes when using a dishwasher.

"We know our climate is changing and recent data has shown in the last six years Australia has experienced three of its hottest summers since records began," he said.

"We constantly monitor local conditions and once we've seen consistent rain and strong river flows, we will move quickly to lift restrictions."

Notices will be placed in The Mercury and Examiner newspapers and on TasWater's website to inform the public of the restrictions.

Targeted social media posts will also be used to inform the community.

POP UP BOOK STALL NEWS

The Pop Up Book Stall has been operating in the Glamorgan Spring Bay Community since October 2015.

In that eight and a half years the spectacular amount of $144,000 has been raised, with almost $100,000 being contributed to groups and causes within our community.

The book stall remains incredibly popular and seems to be increasing in reputation with people from many areas of Tasmania calling in to purchase or donate books. For example on Easter Saturday over 100 people visited the stall!

A reminder to our Swansea supporters, you will find PUBS at the local market on the 2nd Saturday of each month.

Since the start of this year funds have been donated to the following groups:

- Friends of Triabunna Reserves - $300 for Wildlife Trail cameras
- Cancer Council of Tasmania - $3000 for the Triabunna Relay for Life
- Spring Bay Suicide Network - $1908 for Live Life Alarms

Many thanks to all who support us in our endeavours and special thanks to all our wonderful volunteers.

ARTICLES OF INTERESTSWANSEA MOSAIC WORKSHOP

Tuesday April 16th I attended a Mosaicking Workshop at Broni Hendricks garden studio 'See Change' in Swansea. There were about 10 others that joined me, and being a novice myself, I found it very addictive and just good fun.

The group embraced the challenge of a Fish mosaic, and after a tour of the Studio to view some of Broni's treasured creations hoping to inspire us, we set to it.

Above photo: Ingrid cutting up and laying pieces on her mosaic creation.

I personally brought along a cracked vintage plate from my old Mum's wedding present dinner set and immortalised it in my mosaic. Some brought pieces of crockery, shells and glass, mirror they had collected, while others rummaged through the various jars of materials that Broni had on offer.

The results were exceptional, with differing patterns and colour schemes, but all so very pleasing.

Broni is an experienced and creative artist and taught us well. Her calm and encouraging guidance was such an asset to our success and enjoyment.

Broni hopes to have more similar workshops in the near future, so keep an eye out for her advertisements.
