MAST

MARINE and SAFETY TASMANIA

NEW LEGISLATION – SECOND HAND BOATS

April 2023

MAST will soon be introducing new legislation to better manage the transfer and registration process for recreational vessels. The changes are centred around ensuring the vessel is not an unsafe vessel. Many older vessels may have been modified since their construction, which could affect the safety of the boat itself. Common modifications include – new engines, brackets and fixtures being screwed into the vessel, additional weight being added with pot haulers, larger fuel tanks etc. The way a vessel has been stored, maintained and used also affects its condition.

Under new legislation to be implemented, you will be required to declare –that your boat is not unsafe when registering or selling a vessel.

In addition, the person buying the boat must also declare that they are satisfied the vessel being transferred to them is not unsafe. Both the seller and purchaser will have 14 days to notify MAST of the transfer.

This is an important change to Tasmanian legislation, which is designed to better manage transfers and registrations of vessels and improve safety outcomes.

For the purposes of registration and transfer, an unsafe vessel is a vessel which, in the opinion of a reasonable person, may endanger a person due to one or more of the following circumstances:

(a) the structural condition of the vessel, or a component of the vessel, that renders the vessel unfit to undertake a voyage for which the vessel is otherwise designed and would be, if not in that condition, capable of undertaking;

(b) the engine power rating of the vessel, as recommended by the manufacturer or recorded on the ABP, is being exceeded;

(c) the engine mass of the vessel, as recommended by the manufacturer or recorded on the ABP, is being exceeded;

(d) the absence of, or condition of, materials or items comprising the reserve buoyancy, or part of the reserve buoyancy, of the vessel

Many vessels are advertised for cheap prices on various platforms. There is no such thing as a cheap boat!

Often once you start digging you can find a lot more problems than first meet the eye.

The best advice MAST can give any prospective buyer of a second-hand boat – whether as a first boat or if you are downsizing or upgrading - is to take someone who knows about boats when you are viewing the boat.

The old maxim of “buyer beware” is especially important when you are buying a second-hand boat

There are a few basic tips on what to look out for with respect to the hull of a second-hand boat.

Aluminium Hulls

The two areas that can be problematic in aluminium boats are electrolysis and fractured welds. Electrolysis causes the aluminium to corrode and is due to the presence of dissimilar metals.

Areas to monitor include:

- around fastenings (bolts, screws and rivets)
- where the hull is in contact with trailer rollers and skids the bilge where water and debris can sit for long periods.

Fibreglass Hulls

The two problem areas in fibreglass boats are delamination and rotting of the core material and fractures in the glass laminate.

Transom cores – completely remove engine mounting bolts or bilge drain plugs to inspect the timber inside the laminate. Water can enter and become trapped inside eventually rotting the timber reducing the structural integrity of the transom.

Frame Cores – This can also happen within any frames in the boat. These are also normally timber cored. Remove any flooring to inspect the condition of these frames.

MAST will update its website with regard to the implementation of this new legislation at: www.mast.gov.tas.au over the coming months to ensure sellers and buyers understand their obligations.

COMMONWEALTH SOCIETIES IN TASMANIA

The Commonwealth, with King Charles III as its head, has its roots leading back to the British Empire. The modern Commonwealth began in 1949 following the creation of the London Declaration, where the Australian government, along with other Commonwealth countries' governments, became united as Members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and owe a common allegiance to the Crown. Commonwealth societies in Tasmania support this allegiance through the diverse range of social and cultural events organised for their members each year, reflecting the unique characteristics of each society and the Commonwealth.

"By joining a Commonwealth society, East Coast residents have access to many and varied events offered by each of the Commonwealth societies. These social and cultural events are diverse and reflect each Commonwealth society's unique cultural heritage, and offer members and potential members a wide-ranging array of opportunities to socialise, make new friends and be entertained throughout the year".

Commonwealth groups come together as members of the Combined Commonwealth Societies, to celebrate specific Commonwealth events each year, including The King's birthday luncheon in June, and other events organised by Commonwealth groups where members of all groups are invited to attend.

Potential members are welcome to attend events organised by any of the Commonwealth groups as a taster of what they are likely to experience as members of any of the Commonwealth groups currently operating for East Coast residents and beyond.
