LOCAL GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION DISAPPOINTED BY THE LACK OF CONSULTATION ON GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSED PLANNING REFORMS

The Government's statement today of significant changes to how some development applications will be assessed has come as a complete surprise to the local government sector.

LGAT President and Break O'Day Council mayor Mick Tucker said "it is extremely disappointing that the Premier has made this announcement today with no prior consultation with our sector".

The high-profile cases of councillors making controversial decisions on development applications represent a very small proportion of total developments.

The Government's own Future of Local Government Review has noted that the proportion of council planning decisions that go to appeal is about one percent state-wide and that the decisions made by elected representatives were no more likely to be appealed than those by council officers.

It is the historical lack of state-level planning policy that has resulted in councils bearing the full brunt of public criticism on development problems.

While the Government is finally investing resources into developing planning policies and regional strategies, it is too late to deal with the development pressures our state is experiencing.

"Council and state government planners are working through the largest planning reform agenda in our state history. This comes at the same time as growth pressures we have not seen before," Mayor Tucker said.

"Why then is this reform needed now, when Tasmania is already undergoing the largest planning reform of its planning system in its history," he said.

TIMBER INDUSTRY RECEIVES LABOR'S BACKING

Certainty over the future of Tasmania's timber industry has been undermined recently with the State Government failing to support local millers in favour of mainland companies.

There is a real fear that Resources Minister Felix Ellis and Sustainable Timbers Tasmania are preparing to award a major plantation sawlog contract to a mainland saw miller.

They plan to do this by bringing forward sales of plantation sawlogs that saw millers had previously been assured would form part of their resource security from 2027 when the amount of native timber sawlog production reduces by more than half.

Labor Leader Rebecca White met with key representatives from Tasmania's timber industry to listen to their concerns regarding local jobs and businesses.

"I was pleased to meet with a delegation of saw mill operators and forest industry leaders today, but disturbed as they outlined their grave concerns for the future of their businesses and industry under Minister Felix Ellis and the minority Liberal Government," Ms White said.

"The saw millers supported the Regional Forest Agreement and the Tasmanian Forest Agreement reduction in native sawlog supply based on the promise of the plantation resource being made available to them in 2027.

"If Minister Ellis and the Liberals are allowed to sell off the plantation resource to a mainland saw miller, then intergenerational businesses will be forced to reduce jobs or even close. We have seen the consequences of the government's failure to put Tasmanian businesses first with the recent decision to award a contract to a mainland company over local company Bennett's.

Terry Edwards, former Chief Executive of the Forest Industries Association of Tasmania, talked about his concerns regarding Minister Felix Ellis' plans and the impact they will have for local jobs and businesses.

"STT are seemingly looking to sell the Tasmanian plantations to mainland-based interests at the expense of Tasmanian businesses and Tasmanian employment, and that is not acceptable," Mr Edwards stated.

"We expect much better than that from the Tasmanian Government."

"If these forests are exported to Victoria the wealth creation and employment will all be in Victoria, not in Tasmania, and that is unacceptable."

COMMUNITY CONTROL OF COMMUNITY ASSETS

Did you know that there are five public accesses to Nine Mile Beach from Cambria Drive in Dolphin Sands?

Recently the Dolphin Sands Community Association (DSCA) signed a 10-year agreement with the Department of Natural Resources and Environment (NRE) Tasmania to licence stairs to the beach at two of the public access points. We did this after council declined to take on the licence. NRE have agreed to re-build one set of stairs and repair the other. The DSCA will take on responsibility for maintenance.

We are writing to alert other community groups about options such as these. Rather than losing community assets, community groups can work with organisation such as NRE to achieve positive outcomes. Anyone wanting further information can contact us at dscsca.7190@gmail.com
