LAUNCH OF SHAW FAMILY HISTORY BOOK

On Saturday the 2nd August in the Old Court House, the Historical Society and East Coast Heritage Museum held a launch for Jill Salmon's book, "The Shaws" from Ireland to Tasmania, attended by many Shaw family descendants, Society Members and those interested in Family History.

The beautifully bound book encompasses more than thirty years of work by Jill Salmon and is an incredible body of work and research.

The early Shaw settlers were active community members and were involved in the judiciary of early Tasmania, and local politics as well as office bearers of many local organisations.

The book is available for sale at the East Coast Heritage Museum or from the His-

ENERGY FUTURE BRIGHT THANKS TO MARINUS DEAL

Hydro Tasmania welcomed today's announcement by the Australian and Tasmanian governments on a new deal to secure the first Marinus Link cable, as well as low cost-financing for the redevelopment of Tarraleah Power Station and the North West Transmission Developments.

Hydro Tasmania CEO Ian Brooksbank said the projects would deliver jobs, energy security and economic growth for the State.

"A century ago, our hydro pioneers set the State up for economic success with a bold vision for homes and industry powered by clean, green energy," Mr Brooksbank said.

"Marinus Link and redevelopment of Tarraleah will underpin economic growth for another century to come. Today's announcement is a good outcome for Tasmania and for Tasmanians."

Mr Brooksbank said Tasmania had a head start over mainland states when it came to renewable energy infrastructure, but significant investment was needed to meet future demand.

"Electricity consumption in Tasmania is set to almost double over the next 30 years, with our lives and our businesses undergoing rapid electrification.

"We need new sources of renewable energy, more efficient hydro infrastructure, more flexible capacity, and more transmission if we are to meet the energy needs of a modern, low-carbon economy."

Hydro Tasmania is proposing to redevelop the Tarraleah Power Station, breathing new life into the 85-year-old scheme. The preferred redevelopment option will generate 30 per cent more energy from the same amount of water and deliver an additional 100 megawatts of peak capacity (190 MW in total).

It will also make the scheme more flexible, able to start generating almost at the flick of a switch. That will be critical in a future energy system with significant wind and solar resources, allowing hydro power to fill the gaps when the sun isn't shining, and the wind isn't blowing.

A preliminary business case has identified the preferred option for the redevelopment with an early estimate of around $1.05 billion. Hydro Tasmania is now preparing the full business case with detailed cost estimates. A Final Investment Decision is planned for late 2024.

A second flagship project aimed at maximising the State's hydro capacity and supporting the national transition to renewable energy is long duration pumped hydro at Lake Cethana.

Mr Brooksbank said these projects, together with Marinus Link and new wind developments, would drive growth in new and existing industries and deliver more jobs for Tasmanians.

"Marinus Link is the linchpin. It will attract the new wind developments needed to meet the future energy needs of Tasmanians and industry, and it will deliver the energy security needed for business confidence."

PARLIAMENT SUPPORTS LGH INDEPENDENT REVIEW

The Tasmanian Parliament's support for Labor's motion for an independent review into the Launceston General Hospital's Emergency Department and access block across the hospital is very pleasing and reflects the urgency of the problems at the LGH.

The review aims to identify solutions to bed block to improve patient outcomes and relieve pressure on our dedicated health workers.

The LGH already had the worst bed block in the country, with one in 10 people waiting more than 30 hours for care, ambulances regularly backed up, paramedics being rostered to the ramp, and latest health data showing only 37 per cent of Tasmanians presenting at the LGH ED are seen within four hours.

To top it off, people are now being urged to stay away from the LGH AND the Royal Hobart Hospital to ensure they aren't completely overwhelmed.

This is the result of 10 years of Liberal government neglect of Tasmania's health system, and Guy Barnett – the latest in a long line of Liberal Health Ministers – has done nothing to improve the situation since taking on the portfolio.

The Parliament has been forced to act – and we urge Minister Barnett to get on with this review, implement an immediate action plan to address access flow across the hospital and relieve pressure on the LGH's dedicated and hard-working staff.

THE VOICE REFERENDUM

10 questions to ask.

1. IS THIS VOICE LEGALLY RISKY?
2. WHERE ARE THE DETAILS?
3. WILL IT DIVIDES US?
4. WILL IT HELP OUR INDIGENOUS AUSTRALIANS?
5. IS ANY ISSUE BEYOND ITS SCOPE?
6. WILL IT RISK DELAYS & DYSFUNCTION?
7. WILL IT OPEN THE DOOR FOR ACTIVISTS?
8. WILL IT BE COSTLY AND BUREAUCRATIC?
9. THIS VOICE WILL BE PERMANENT
10. ARE THERE BETTER WAYS FORWARD?

SWANSEA COMMUNITY GARDEN

There is movement at the community garden! Do you know where it is?

A large internal block of land between 8 and 10 Noyes Street, Swansea.

The garden hasn't seen much activity in the past year or two and needs a bit of love.

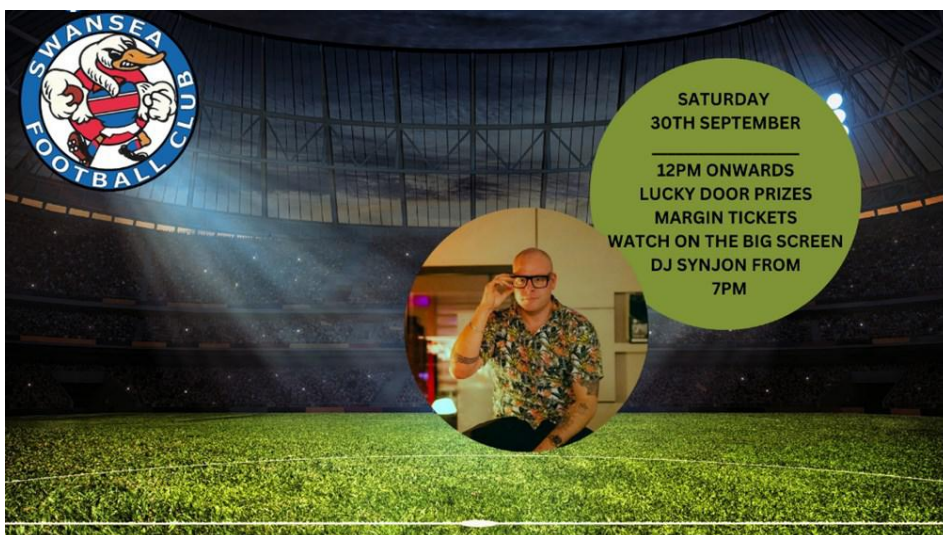

With the help of a Community Bank grant we are going to give it a new look. Its very exciting.

The overgrown ground beds will be dug up, the area cleared and raised beds installed- fewer weeds and not much bending! It will be beautiful.

Our small number of crew would love to see more veggie heads join us when the garden is ready for planting. Even if you have a small garden come along and see how we are going and join in the fun of growing, picking, sharing. Your community, your garden!
